

Farm and Garden Notes.

Exchange.]

Underdraining is a good investment.

Plant carefully to gather abundantly.

Fight stock vermin and plant insects.

Oats and peas grown together are called "ham sandwiches" for stock.

On sandy soils, that leach badly, apply the manure directly to the crop.

It is an unprofitable hired man who objects to working between meals.

Is there any fun in tilling 2 acres to get the profits of one? There is no profit in it.

Never prune a tree unless there is a good reason why a limb or branch should be taken off.

Be sure to raise such crops as your market demands. There is no profit in a lot of unsalable truck.

In buying poultry for breeding get those of a good quality. It does not pay to use poor fowls as breeders.

After you have brushed the adder clean, milk the cow as fast as you can, and milk her clean to the last drop.

Owing to the sacrifice of breeding stock, some are predicting better prices for beef in the near future.

The best plan is to set a stake by every tree in setting out, and then tie firmly to prevent the wind from shaking.

Clean up the fence corners, burn the rubbish and put the ashes on the land; they will do good there; the rubbish may sow the seeds of weeds.

Wire netting makes a splendid fencing for poultry—durable and ornamental. It costs more than lath, but lasts for years and does not require repairs.

Are your tools ready for work? If not take the first rainy day to get your cultivator in shape, or the mower and rake fixed up so you will be ready for the corn and hay.

Never allow lice to get the start of you. Whitewash often and keep plenty of dust around. Use kerosene occasionally on the roosts. Don't set too many hens near each other.

The mild winter leaves a surplus of hay. Don't be too fast to get rid of it at the present low prices. Better wait till the stock is out on good grass. Time enough then to dispose of the hay.

How about your tool box? Have you some carriage bolts, assorted sizes and lengths. Some copper rivets as well as nails and screws in it? It will often pay many times over to have these handy.

Hints About Washing.

Orchard and Garden.]

A handful of borax to 10 gallons of water will whiten the clothes without injuring them. When this is used only about half as much soap will be needed. A table-spoonful of turpentine, added to the water in the boiler just before putting in the clothes, is by some preferred to borax for whitening. Silk handkerchiefs should be washed with fine white soap in lukewarm water, and rinsed two or three times in clear water without blueing. They should not be allowed to get very dry before ironing. Black stockings should be washed in strong salt water, then in a weaker solution, and rinsed in clear water. To wash corsets, scrub with a clean brush, using soap and a little ammonia and rinsing thoroughly. Fruit stains will disappear if boiling water be poured upon them at once. Old fruit stains should be wet with a solution of hyposulphite of soda, with pulverized tartaric acid, afterward washed out in clear water. To remove grass stains, rub them thoroughly with butter and spread in the sun for three or four hours before washing. Lemon juice will take ink stains from white goods; while lemon juice and salt will usually remove iron rust. A little borax in the water will keep red table cloths and napkins from fading. To wash babies' crotched or knitted sacques, socks, etc., use corn starch, rubbing the articles just as you would if washing with water and they will soon look clean and white.

How to Save Money.

Scribner's Magazine.]

Experience has shown that some system is absolutely necessary to induce a large proportion of the persons of moderate means to lay aside a part of their incomes. The smaller the income, the greater, of course, is the temptation to spend it all in order to supply wished-for comforts of life. When money saving means a denial of some creature comfort, some equivalent for the denial must be presented clearly to view. The naturally frugal spy out this equivalent for themselves. But there are so many who are not by nature frugal; and it is for them that a system must be devised.

The most efficient system of this kind should combine three things: (1) An easily perceived inducement to save; (2) regularity in laying aside the savings; (3) as much compulsion as may be in enforcing the economy. These conditions are best fulfilled by the form of co-operation known as the "building and loan association."

The Sun.

FOR 1890.

Some people agree with THE SUN's opinions about men and things, and some people don't; but everybody likes to get hold of the newspaper which is never dull and never afraid to speak its mind.

Democrats know that for twenty years THE SUN has fought in the front line for Democratic principles, never wavering or weakening in its loyalty to the true interests of the party it serves with fearless intelligence and disinterested vigor. At times opinions have differed as to the best means of accomplishing the common purpose; it is not THE SUN's fault if it has seen further into the millstone.

Eighteen hundred and ninety is the year that will probably determine the result of the Presidential election of 1892, and perhaps the fortunes of the Democracy for the rest of the century. Victory in 1892 is a duty, and the beginning of 1890 is the best time to start out in company with THE SUN.
